DEACON BRODY are set to release four new singles and music videos.

North West based indie rock band Deacon Brody flew back into the studio, with Manchester's David Radahd -Jones at Red City Records, and are hyped to release four new singles, across all major music streaming platforms, social media sites and YouTube. Their first single, "Live Forever", mastered by Grant Berry who has worked with the likes of indie rock sensations 'Deaf Havana', is set to be released March 8th. They are also set to play a live show in support of their first single, at the inner-city Retro Bar, a venue quickly gaining an impressive reputation for live music and for upcoming bands to showcase new original music. Retro can be found at 78 Sackville Street, in the heart of Manchester city centre. The launch party is on Saturday 9th March, tickets can be found here:

The singles are a new direction for Deacon Brody. After their first EP gained radio play and popularity with indie-rock lovers, the new sound is going bolder and hitting harder than anything the band has done previously. Taking a more serious direction, the boys want to concentrate their focus on the craftsmanship of the music and make something that can really get into your head. Working with David Radahd-Jones, owner of Red City Recordings in Manchester, they were able to fine tune their sound and hone in on what makes them write, what their fans like to hear, but most importantly what makes great music.

Deacon Brody have already released original music and videos which are available to listen to and view now. The band have released two singles to date: "Hey To The River" and "Repair". The music video for "Hey To The River" can be viewed here:
